A Brief Guide to Foreign Legal Consultant

What is a Foreign Legal Consultant?

- A Foreign Legal Consultant is a foreign licensed lawyer who is approved by the Minister of Justice to provide legal consultation about foreign laws in the Republic of Korea.
- In principle, a foreign licensed lawyer may act as a Foreign Legal Consultant only if he/she is registered with the Korean Bar Association after receiving approval as a Foreign Legal Consultant.
 - A Foreign Legal Consultant acts as a 'foreign member' of the Korean Bar Association

Relevant Provisions

Foreign Legal Consultant Act Article 2 (Definitions) The Terms used in this Act shall be defined as follows:

3. The term "Foreign Legal Consultant" means a Foreign Licensed Lawyer who receives qualification approval from the Minister of Justice in accordance with Article 6 and registers with the Korean Bar Association in accordance with Article $10\ \odot$

Foreign Legal Consultant Act Article 6 (Qualification Approval, etc.) ① The Minister of Justice may grant qualification approval as a Foreign Legal Consultant if an applicant fulfills all of the requirements prescribed in each of the following subparagraphs:

- 1. Where the Country of Original License is a contracting party to a Free Trade Agreement, etc.;
- 2. Where the applicant's qualification as a Foreign Licensed Lawyer shall be valid in the Country of Original License;

- The Republic of Korea has a selective policy to provide approval for Foreign Legal Consultant only to foreign licensed lawyers from nations to which the Korean legal market is open through FTAs.
- As of November 2016, the Republic of Korea has opened its legal market through FTAs to various nations such as the United States of America, European Union, the People's Republic of China, etc., but the scope of its market liberalization differs from nation to nation. (Please refer to the table below.)

Market Liberalization by 3-Stage Process

- Phase 1 A Foreign Licensed Lawyer from a contracting party to FTA, etc. may establish a Foreign Legal Consultant Office and perform foreign legal services as a Foreign Legal Consultant in the Republic of Korea
- Phase 2 A Foreign Legal Consultant office of a contracting party to FTA, etc. may cooperate with a Korean law firm to perform its services on a case-by-case basis.
- Phase 3 A Foreign Legal Consultant office of a contracting party to FTA, etc. may establish a Joint Venture Law Firm with a Korean law firm, and a Joint Venture Law Firm may hire Korean Attorneys-at-Law and Foreign Legal Consultants to provide consulting services in regards to domestic and foreign legal issues.
 - The reason for such selective and phased market liberalization is to enhance the competitiveness of legal services in the Republic of Korea through legal market liberalization and to minimize the impact on the legal market.
 - The practice manual for establishment of Joint Venture Law Firms is available on the website of the Ministry of Justice.

I am licensed to practice law in Japan. Can I become a Foreign Legal Consultant in Korea? As of November 2016, the Republic of Korea has not yet opened its legal market to Japan.
Therefore, a person licensed to practice law in Japan may not be granted qualification approval for a Foreign Legal Consultant.

Can any Foreign Licensed Lawyer from a contracting party to a FTA, etc. become a Foreign Legal Consultant?

- Foreign Legal Consultant Act grants qualification approval for Foreign Legal Consultant only if a Foreign Licensed Lawyer from a contracting party to a FTA, etc. meets certain requirements. For example, one needs to meet the requirement of at least 3 years of work experience.
- A Foreign Licensed Lawyer who intends to become a Foreign Legal Consultant must have at least 3 years of work experience in the Country of Original License* after acquiring a law license.
 - *Country of Original License: A country where a Foreign Licensed Lawyer acquired his/her license and completed procedures required to provide legal services
- However, in regards to qualification approval for Foreign Legal Consultant, work experience in any other foreign country than the Country of Original License can be included up to the maximum of 3 years and work experience in the Republic of Korea can be included up to the maximum of 2 years.
- For example, if an U.S. attorney-at-law performed legal practices in regards to the statutes of the U.S. for 1 year in the U.K. and for 2 years in the Republic of Korea, he/she meets the requirement of work experience.
- For reference, a person who intends to become the representative of a Foreign Legal Consultant Office needs at least 5 years of work experience including 3 years of work experience in the Country of Original License. In this case, 3 years work experience must be from the Country of Original License.

 In addition, a foreign license to practice law which is valid in the Country of Original License is required, and a Korean Attorney-at-Law must temporarily suspend or cease his/her practice.

Relevant Provisions

Foreign Legal Consultant Act Article 4 (Work Experience) ① To obtain qualification approval as a Foreign Legal Consultant, an applicant shall have at least three years of work experience in legal practices in his/her country of Original License after obtaining his/her license as a Foreign Licensed Lawyer.

- ② The time period during which an applicant practiced legal services with respect to the statutes of his/her Country of Original License in any foreign country other than his/her Country of Original License may be included in the time period referred to in paragraph ① as prescribed by the Presidential Decree.

What are the tasks a Foreign Legal Consultant may perform and may not perform?

- A Foreign Legal Consultant may provide legal advice on statutes of the Country of Original License where he/she is licensed to practice law, treaties to which the Country of Original License is a contracting party, and generally accepted customary international law, as well as legal representation, etc. in international arbitration cases.
 - For reference, representation in international arbitration cases held in the Republic of Korea may be carried out by a non-registered Foreign Licensed Lawyer as well as a Foreign Legal Consultant. In such cases, however, a non-registered Foreign Licensed Lawyer may not stay longer than 90 days during the course of 1 year.

Be cautious of the tasks a Foreign Legal Consultant may not perform.

- A Foreign Legal Consultant may not perform tasks related to the statutes of the Republic of Korea.
- Especially, a Foreign Legal Consultant may not practice tasks that are only allowed to Korean Attorneys-at-law by the statutes of the Republic of Korea such as legal services related to domestic laws including litigation, etc., tasks subjected to government agencies, interview as a defense counsel at a detention center, etc.

As a Foreign Legal Consultant, Can I interview a person detained at a detention center as a defense counsel in order to represent a client for foreign legal cases?

A Foreign Legal Consultant can practice such tasks as legal advice on the statutes of the Country of Original License, legal representation for international arbitration cases, etc. but cannot practice tasks only allowed to Korean Attorneys-at-law such as interview as a defense counsel, litigation, etc.
